BUCK APPOINTS NEW HEAD OF COMMUNICATIONS

LONDON: 11 March 2008 – Buck Consultants (Buck), an ACS company and one of the world's leading human resource and benefit consulting firms, today announced that Ben Wells has been appointed to succeed Tim Roberts as head of its communications practice in the UK.

Ben has been with Buck since 2002 and his clients include a range of leading national and international organisations. He has experience in a variety of communication projects, including compensation and benefits change, employer branding and engagement, HR transformation and outsourcing, and technology implementation. These projects have been undertaken both within the UK and globally.

The priorities for Ben include maintaining Buck's strong presence in the employee education and training areas, particularly the total reward area and all other aspects of the employer/employee relationship. In line with this objective, Ben and his team will be strengthening Buck's offer in the employee engagement area, as well as further expanding its European communication network.

Ben comments: "We have established a first-class reputation within the specialised field of benefit, reward and human resource management communication, having worked with more than a quarter of the UK's FTSE 100 companies. I welcome the opportunity to build on our impressive track record and look forward to the many new challenges this role will bring."

Mike Roberts, UK Managing Director, added: "Ben's detailed knowledge of our existing communication clients and projects will ensure a seamless transition. With an experienced and talented team, I'm sure our communications practice will achieve continuing success going forward."
